TerraLogos Energy Group

The Company

TerraLogos Energy Group performs Energy Audits and Energy Improvement Contracting to find and fix the hidden energy leaks in homes and buildings. Our whole-building approach delivers cost effective improvements to help our customers reduce energy bills, while making their home or building more comfortable and healthy, and reducing their personal impact on the environment.

Using the TerraLogos data collection system and advanced building diagnostic equipment, our trained building analysts conduct affordable, comprehensive Energy Audits which reveal a home's or building's energy and health issues. The resulting inspection report provides customized and prioritized recommendations for improving the property's energy efficiency, comfort and indoor air quality.

We then assist our customers to put their plan into action by coordinating the desired improvement work with our pre-qualified list of green contractors. Through our oversight and follow-up, we assure that the improvements are done properly and the planned benefits are realized.

Building on over 30 years experience in green building design, TerraLogos Energy Group, we provide a whole building, integrated approach to finding and fixing the energy leaks in Maryland, saving money, time and frustration.

Since 2006, we have performed over 700 Energy Audits on homes and other buildings in the mid-Atlantic region. We were named 2008 Contractor of the Year by the MD Home Performance with Energy Star program, and named Green Entrepreneur 2009 by the Baltimore Business Journal.

With our integrated approach and extensive knowledge of green building practices, we help property owners identify and implement their wisest investments for energy improvement.

The Presenter

Peter Van Buren

President, Director of Sales and Marketing

Building on an undergraduate degree in Environmental Studies and a Masters in Sustainable Landscape Design and Planning, Mr. Van Buren brings 25 years of experience in sales and customer service to TerraLogos Energy Group.

As President of the company, he focuses on business development and marketing, coordination of the inspection/report/contractor process, and quality assurance of all aspects of work. Trained as a home energy inspector, he has a thorough knowledge of building sciences and the energy-efficiency problems facing Marylanders today.
